

Asesinato en la playa!

When Linda moves to Pennarron she never expects to be involved in a murder mystery. It all starts when she finds the body of a dead woman on the beach. She reports it to the police but they don't believe her since there's no evidence no report of any missing person. Accidentally, she met. Mark a handsome boy from the village who helps Linda with the investigation. They go to the beach and find evidence (someone throwing a rubbish bag, and two more bags -with a dead dog and papers with signatures-) on top of the cliffs. This led them to Carslbrook Mansion. There, they meet Julia, whose sister is Florence Landsman, the dead woman on the beach. After some suspicious clues (unexperience servants, the two sisters never together, the mysterious stables). Linda and Mark get to the conclusion that Julia is playing both roles and she has murdered her sister to get money and re-start her career. She starts a filming in the village which gives Linda the change to perform her plan: Florence's murder. They got the evidence to the police who arrest Julia and her accomplices who tried to escape. Finally, Linda and Mark become famous for a while but they prefer to think about their own personal story.
